Ari

Design Philippe Nigro

Presented as a prototype at the Salone del Mobile 2023, the ARI collection doubles with a new indoor version!

Ari bears the signature of designer Philippe Nigro, it was born as an outdoor collection, sober, elegant and versatile: an interplay of juxtaposed and doubled lines that branch out in height; now proposed in the same aesthetic also for indoor environments.

The metal rods of the frame start from the ground side by side and in parallel, then bend and separate, creating the right shape for comfortable seating.

The frame gathers and accommodates the wide, comfortable seat, arm and backrest cushions.

The Ari collection is a complete system consisting of: linear modules, corner modules, end units, armchair, ottoman and occasional tables.

Further novelty: the family is extended with the addition of the comfortable outdoor armchair to the range.

Space+

Restyling the historic Space model, but with an extra quid is SPACE+: flexibility as always with a new style.

This linear system, designed to meet every need in terms of hospitality and sharing, offers unparalleled modularity thanks to its ability to be assembled in different configurations. With a renewed design that eliminates the superfluous, Space+ combines comfort and ergonomics with impeccable aesthetics. The customisation possibilities are extensive, with different options for backrests and upholstery (backrest with smooth upholstery; backrest with upholstery with vertical stitching; backrest with upholstery with horizontal stitching; backrest with upholstery with buttons), and allow each seat to be adapted to the specific needs of each project. The elimination of the plinth uncovers its steel tube structure, giving the Space+ bench a renewed lightness.

Harvey

Design Francesco Faccin

"The easel is an anonymous object, a mute servant that has always helped man to perform many tasks and trades. An essential tool made up of a few elements that work structurally in a very effective way, making it a sort of "architectural object" that supports a plan". F. Faccin

HARVEY is the electrified trestle stand that pays homage to the essentiality and structural effectiveness of an architectural object such as the trestle. Designed by Francesco Faccin for Et al., Harvey is perfect as a table stand in contemporary environments such as coworking, offices, and even in our homes, adapting to new living and working needs.

Now available with connecting crosspieces to allow it to be used in combination with a wide variety of tops of different sizes and types, Harvey is transformed into a true collection with multiple possibilities.

The Salone del Mobile is the occasion to present the Harvey project in combination with an unprecedented frosted glass top.

Philippe Tabet

Born in Versailles, he graduated in Industrial Design in Lyon to complete his academic career in Paris, where he began collaborating with industrial and global design studios.

Driven by a desire to deepen his knowledge of the history of furniture, Philippe Tabet moved to Milan in 2011 and began a professional career in the furniture industry. In 2014, he decided to open his own studio, putting the manufacturing process, the material and its specificities at the centre of his work. The resulting forms become a continuum with respect to the material from which they originate.

Philippe Tabet's work focuses on the search for the 'truth' of the material and his inspiration takes shape from the different manufacturing processes with a glance at the objects of the past. He is convinced that every object must tell a story that is the fruit of its time. His passion for drawing shines through in a clear and precise sign characterised by strong but delicate lines.

Although he concentrates most of his work in industrial design, his knowledge of manufacturing processes leads him to experiment with an artisanal approach, as in his 'Order' series of masks that pay homage to the artisans "masters of production who hold the order of the industrial process" through different moulding techniques.

Over the years, his creations have been awarded prizes and exhibited.

Philippe Tabet believes that the practice of design applies to a broad spectrum of objects, because what he creates belongs as much to the furniture sector as to the design of electronic objects.

Philippe Nigro

Philippe Nigro is a French designer who was born in Nice. He studied Decorative Arts and Product Design (L.De Vinci, Antibes - La Martinière, Lyon - Boulle, Paris).

Independent designer since 1999, he started his career alongside Michele De Lucchi with whom he participated in many product, furniture, lighting, interior design, event and set design projects. Philippe Nigro's work is characterized by the connection between an experimental research approach and the pragmatic analysis of the "know how" of the clients he collaborates with. Over the years these experiences, enriched by the mix of his French and Italian culture together with various design challenges he faced, have granted him the awareness to move from one kind and level of work to another, collaborating with a diversified set of companies in terms of dimension, prestige and focus, allowing him to investigate the heterogeneous aspects related to design.

Since 2005 he has been developing experimental projects which have been supported by the French VIA (Valorisation de l'innovation dans l'ameublement - Valorisation for Innovation in Furniture).

In 2014 he was honored with the Designer of the Year award at the Maison&Objet exhibition. He is also active in the field of set design for exhibitions, to cite a few: he worked in the 7th edition of the Triennale Design Museum "Italian Design beyond the crisis", and came out in 2015 with the new concept for the stands of the cars company brand Lexus for the upcoming worldwide motor shows. In 2016-17 he organized the installation Ultralin, Paris Place des Vosges and Sololino in Milan for The European Confederation of Flax and Hemp (OELC).

Philippe Nigro collaborates with international brands such as Moleskine, Venini, Hermès.

Francesco Faccin

Francesco Faccin believes in design without boundaries, constantly and smoothly shifting between industrial production, independent production, community design and gallery work.

"I am interested in design that sparks connections, thought and debate, especially if they result from in-depth research that goes beyond the object itself. Design is a fantastic opportunity to deepen our relationship with the world around us. It allows us to connect fields and disciplines that are apparently incompatible."

Francesco Faccin was born in Milan in 1977. In 2004, after a 2-year collaboration with Enzo Mari, he began to work with model- and lute-maker Francesco Rivolta, learning sophisticated cabinet-making techniques. In 2007, he opened his studio in Milan. From 2009 to 2015, he was a consultant for Michele De Lucchi. In 2013, he was an "Italian Fellow" at the prestigious American Academy in Rome. In 2010, he won the Design Report Award and, in 2015, he received an honourable mention at the Compasso d'Oro (Golden Compass) award with the "Traverso" project. From 2014 to 2016, he was the art director at Fonderia Artistica Battaglia in Milan. He presented "Honey Factory", an urban hive, at Expo 2015. In 2018, he started collaborating with Giustini/Stagetti with the "Anonimo Contemporaneo" collection. Francesco Faccin is a university professor at Free University of Bozen-Bolzano, Made Program in Syracuse (Sicily), and Universidad de Navarra in Pamplona. He is also a visiting professor at many other Italian and international universities. Francesco Faccin Studio works with Italian and international design galleries, furnishing and lighting companies, public bodies and NGOs.
